The Pall Mall Gazette says the charges made by Dunraven have been courteously refuted, and expresses the hope that the incident is now closed. International contests between England and America, the Gazette says, have led to such ill feeling that it is almost regretful that they should continue.

The Westminster Gazette says probably no one deplores Lord Dunraven's outbreak of temper more than himself.

SILVER ON TOP.

The United States Senate Shows Its Silver Majority Today.

SENATOR MORRILL MAKES AN ANTI-SILVER SPEECH, THEN HIS PLAN AND GORMAN'S ARE VOTED DOWN.

Bayard Will Be Censured.

HOUSE COMMITTEE ACTS.

Dunraven Criticised at Home.

WHAT LONDON PAPERS SAY.

WASHINGTON.

Feb. 1.—In the senate today Mr. Morrill of Vermont spoke against the silver substitute for the house bill.

The house of representatives, he said, promptly responded to the president's demand and supplemented it with an emergency tariff revenue bill as a more permanent remedy against the export of gold.

But the senate committee on finance have proposed as a substitute for the bond bill, a bill for free coinage of silver, something too much of which is the cause of our present embarrassment.

"This," said Senator Morrill, "may not be the first time where bread has been asked for and a stone presented, but it is the first time a senate committee seems to have perpetrated a practical joke, almost good enough for a clown of Barnum's menagerie."

"The United States," said Mr. Morrill,
"had been a friend of silver to its own hurt and," he continued, "our late investments of nearly five hundred millions in silver have been notoriously impropriate and unprofitable, the disastrous results will appear as a drop in the bucket when compared with what must follow from the enormity of the present proposal which is to open all our mints to free coinage, not only of our own silver product, but also of all the world."

"The vast product," he said, "once in the possession of the government must stay
there forever, defunct as an Egyptian
mummy, as the public long ago refused
to aid in its larger practical circulation."

"The vast product," he said, "once in the
possession of the government must stay
there forever, defunct as an Egyptian
mummy, as the public long ago refused
to aid in its larger practical circulation."

Senator Morrill then offered an amendment providing that a scimorage equal to the difference between the coinage value or face value and the commercial value of silver shall be retained by the United States. This amendment was defeated 33 to 44.

A motion by Mr. Gorman that the free silver amendment offered by the finance committee be laid on table was defeated 34 to 43, a victory for the silverites and showing their strength.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Populist Allen's amendment prohibiting any further issue of bonds without congress having declared the necessity therefore, was defeated in the senate today 21 to 54.

The resolution censuring Ambassador Bayard for sentiments expressed by him in his recent English speeches were adopted by the house foreign affairs committee this afternoon. Two resolutions were adopted by the house foreign affairs committee this afternoon. The first censures Mr. Bayard by name for language used, and incorporated with this was a second resolution this was a second resolution, expressing disapproval of any American representatives abroad discussing United States political affairs, and displaying partisanship and the condemnation of political parties or other reputable organizations of American citizens.

The great hosiery sale that was advertised in the TRANSCRIPT so extensively this week by Tuttle & Bryant came off yesterday and resulted in a sale of over 900 pairs.

—Miss Eva Sheldon has been requested to start a juvenile dancing class to meet Saturday afternoons, and if sufficient applications are received she will probably do so.

The K. F. M. Whist club was entertained last evening by Mrs. John Larkin of Eagle street. Refreshments were served and the meeting was a very pleasant one.

—Miss Katie Carey of Rock street entertained a small party of friends last evening at whist. Among the out of town guests was Henry LeBoeuf of Blackinton.
Refreshments were served.

—The mass meeting to consider the Armenian question will be held at Wilson hall next Friday evening, February 7.

Mayor Houghton will preside and it is hoped there will be a large attendance.

—The "belated picnic" to be held at St.
John's parish house next Tuesday evening and Wednesday afternoon, and evening promises to be a most delightful affair in all respects. The preparations will be complete and an unusually happy time is anticipated.

—Will C. Bacon of Bank street gave a party to twenty friends last evening in honor of his sixtieth birthday. Part of the evening was spent at whist and the remainder of the time was crowded full of games and jollification. Miss Emma Hermane and Charles Dalton won the whist prizes.

—Orland Ottman of Foster street comes forward with the best egg record of the winter. Mr. Ottman has nine White Plymouth Rock pullets, hatched last May and from January 1 to February 1, they have laid 192 eggs. Mr. Ottman would be pleased to learn of better results and solicits comparison.

—The next in the series of practical tests is given this winter before St. Andrew's Brotherhood will be delivered at St. John's parish house next Thursday evening, February 6, by Charles T. Ralston of the Hoosac Valley News. His subject will be "The Moral Influence of the Press." The meeting will be open to the public and admission is free.

—No money was paid out of the city treasury today for teachers' salaries, although this was the regular pay day. The city officials will do their respective garners Monday morning and it was thought advisable to wait until the officials under the new government could pay out the money. The teachers will be paid early next week.

SUMMER DAYS IN WINTER.

It is not a bad thing for us in the midst of a winter to think once in a while of the summer sun that is ever shining somewhere, if not for us in its fullness today, still ever-shining with some of its cheering rays within our reach, perhaps, if we will only hopefully look for them. Summer in winter, winter in summer is always longed for in a life of discontent; while sweet content will ever find her summer days and sing her summer song, sweetly turning the cold grey light of wintry gloom into a glow that makes her path-way radiant and cheery and blesses the pathways of those about her.

The first day of winter's last month may seem far from a summer day to some of us. These are times when anxious care lingers long over many weary hearts and hands. Hard times and hard lines among men and women have hidden a sunshine that nature's unusually mild and kindly winter has tried to give us.

It is not an unnatural weakness, and it may not be unmanly or unwomanly to be unable when dark days are prolonged to throw off a depression that ordinarily would be banished with a smile. It is only human. There are tears that may be even divine when they come from a depth which human power cannot fathom or which human sympathy cannot reach. A divine spirit only can bring sunshine to those depths of human despair, and the unbidden tears may prove to be but as the raindrops which shall form the bow of promise when the sun is coming out again and the dark clouds roll away.

But the winter days are nearly gone and brighter, healthier times are coming. There will be improvement in the air for health and business. The wheels so long clogged give promise of moving on once more in something of their old time liveliness. Courage is being renewed; confidence is being established, slowly to be sure, and better times will soon be here. We can make them better anyway in our own little circles if we try to find the sunshine that is ever falling somewhere.

And let none of us fall into the habit of feeling that we are kindly in having our troubles or in ill bearing them. We are not so much unlike. There is burden as there is sunshine for every man, woman, and child of us. If we will but try to lift and share them both, for and with each other, we shall find that "there are summer days in winter after all."

WHICH SHALL IT BE?

The Pittsfield Eagle reprints in full our editorial of Wednesday, in which a plan was outlined that is feasible and which would give us a very desirable railroad connection with New York and the west by way of Lebanon. The Eagle comments upon it editorially as follows:

The article from the North Adams TRANSCRIPT which we quote in another column, shows that our friends in the upper part of the county are in earnest in the matter of better railroad facilities for that section. The better the article indicates, we little doubt, the all improvement of things through the medium of the Boston and Albany company, and a determination to seek a benefit by other agencies. We admire the spirit which aims at improvement, if not by one agency then by another, but we do not want Pittsfield to be left out of the calculation. If North Adams is to have better railroad facilities, we want them to come from this direction, because we want to share in the benefits which will be derived. It would be all well enough to send a railroad into North Adams by way of the Lebanon valley, but that would not benefit this city nor would it be helpful for Berkshire county as a whole. The natural route is down this way to Pittsfield and thence to New York and the west, and if Berkshire will hang together on this line, it will be pretty apt to get them to do it, for one city assuming a leadership attitude, is bound to reach out for other connections which is likely to be disappointment all along the line. The business men of Pittsfield stand ready to join hands with those of North Adams in bringing an improvement in railroad service, but nothing will be gained if there be a division of interests.

The comment above is wholly justifiable and states the case fairly and in accordance with our views, excepting perhaps the intimation that improved railroad facilities for Berkshire can only be obtained in one direction. The first choice of northern Berkshire of course would be to have the Boston & Albany so improve its services between North Adams and Pittsfield as to make it unnecessary to look elsewhere for the needed railroad facilities.

The natural route and the one most desirable for Pittsfield and the county as a whole is undoubtedly by way of our sister city. But at the same time northern Berkshire and a very important surrounding territory would be benefitted almost beyond calculation by such an outlet as the proposed road by way of the Lebanon valley would give. Our entire county would in the same way receive material benefit, though indirectly, perhaps, by such a line competing with a road which gives this section such inferior service.

Rapidly growing North Adams feels its needs in these respects probably more than does Pittsfield at present, and this city is quite as anxious as the other to have such improvements as shall be of the greatest mutual benefit. Pittsfield's spirit of co-operation in this matter is heartily appreciated here. Our people will work hand in hand with hers and untiringly to obtain the railroad improvements so urgently needed between the two cities.

But our city has two or more strings to her bow, and it would not be in keeping with her spirit to neglect the others while the one did not seem wholly promising. Improved railroad facilities, such as shall be at least approximately near to what this important manufacturing, agricultural and summer resort section deserves, the people are bound to have. They are needed at once and active measures will soon be fully under way for securing them from the most readily available and most promising source.

The Springfield Union is soon to have decidedly improved printing facilities. A fine new Potter press has been purchased, which will permit the twelve pages of the paper to be printed in single form, and not in part as a supplement. A new dress of type, and an increased editorial and reporter staff are also promised. While the prospective changes are being made, the Union asks its readers' indulgence if any shortcomings are found in its printing. Good for the Union. We like its politics, and are always glad to learn of its prosperity.

Good news of brighter business is coming from all sources and directions. R. G. Dunn & Co's weekly review of trade says: Though business is still waiting, there are some signs of definite improvement. It is now believed that the first payment for bonds will cause no further pressure, and the money markets are easier as respects loans or collateral, though the difficulty of making commercial loans still check operations. But large maturities at the end of January have been met more satisfactorily than was expected, and merchants and bankers report that the signs promise a good spring trade.

This is the way they make newspapers in New York: Theodore Roosevelt and Prof. John Bassett Moore addressed the Political Science club Thursday evening on the Monroe doctrine. Mr. Roosevelt supporting the president in his application of the doctrine to the Venezuela boundary, and Prof. Moore condemning him. In reporting this meeting the next day the Times and Sun strong against the English position gave Roosevelt a hearty and Moore a short plaudits, while the Evening post was against the administration's position. Moore's a column and a half and Roosevelt a 10-line "roast." All these journals "love the truth." —Republ.

The New York yacht club's report on the Duran Duran charges is made public. It amounts to this: there is no evidence back of Lord Duran Duran's charges and his whole case was founded on suspicion only. We are glad the report is not sharp or cutting, but courteously expressed and couched in temperate language. We want more races, and can afford to be generous.

John L. Sullivan is very sick at Springfield, Ill., from a sort of blood poisoning setting in from wounds about the head received in a severe fall. He is attracting to himself almost as much sympathy as a dying hero. But we think John will get well. It is the good, who die young—not the plug-uglies.

The government income last month ran below the expenditures $3,500,000. How would a little more revenue do? We are tired of hearing Cleveland and his followers declare there is nothing the matter with the amount of the government's income.

They are at it again. Mary A. Livermore and other Massachusetts women suffragists petitioned the legislature yesterday that women be allowed to vote at Presidential and municipal elections.

The first snow storm comes on the first of the last month of the winter and the last twenty-nine days February we shall see in eight years. The snow is welcome all the same.

The east wind was not a favorite with the Bible writers, but such a breeze would be almighty welcome to the owners of the St. Paul, especially along with a high tide.

Holyoke has begun public hearings on the revision of its city charter. That city has kept an eye on the North Adams charter.

The new issue of bonds, it is said on good authority, are being bid for from 108 to 109. Uncle Sam has some credit yet.

The archives of Spain, Holland and France must contribute to the fact of the Venezuelan-Guiana boundary.

The St. Paul sticketh to Long Branch sands as an ill-repute clinging to a man in an uncharitable world.

THE EDITOR'S SHEARS.

FOR TODAY.

THE KING'S SHIPS.

God hath so many ships upon the sea! His are the merchantmen that carry treasure, The men of war all banner gallantly; The little fisher-boats and barges of pleasure.

On all this sea of time there is not one that sailed without the glorious name thereon.

The winds go up and down upon the sea, And some they lightly clasp entreating kindly; And waft them to the port where they would be. And other ships they buffet long and blindly; The cloud comes down on the great sinking deep, And on the shore the watchers stand and weep.

And God hath many wrecks within the sea.

O, it is deep! I look in fear and wonder; The wisdom throned above is dark to me, Yet it is sweet to think God's care is under, And yet the sunken treasure may be drawn Into his storehouse when the sea is gone. So I that sail in peril on the sea With my beloved whom yet the waves may cover, Say, God hath more than angels' care of me, And larger share than I in friend and lover. Why weep you so, ye watchers on the land? This deep is but the hollow of his hand!

—Carl Spencer.

TO THE UNEMPLOYED OR THOSE WANTING HELP.

Knowing that there are many persons seeking employment, both men and women, in our city, during these hard winter months both skilled labor and ordinary domestic help, and believing that in many cases employers would be glad to know where such help can be obtained, we have decided to publish in the Daily Transcript advertisements of Situations Wanted or Help Wanted Free of Charge.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

—The Hill Whist club was entertained Thursday evening by Miss Aimee Faulkner of East Quincy street.

—Mr. W. W. Richmond of Wall street will entertain the Monday Evening Whist club at her home Monday evening.

—About forty couples enjoyed the social and dance given last evening by the Richmond Artillery Social club. Similar entertainments are given each week and are the source of much pleasure.

—The Robert Emmet association social and dance given in the society room in Hocsoe bank block last evening was attended by about thirty couples. The Ideal orchestra furnished music and R. T. Costello was the fiddle master.

—Several young men of Blackinton gave a dancing party in the F. M. T. A. hall in Blackinton last evening which was an occasion of much enjoyment. A number attended from this city. A leap-year dance was given to the young men by the young ladies of Blackinton two weeks ago, and this party was a recapitulation.

—A dancing class composed mostly of married people and numbering about thirty has been organized and its first meeting will be held in Pythian hall Monday evening, the 11th. Henry Doring of Troy, N. Y., a member of the American Society of Professors of Dancing will be the instructor. A juvenile dancing class will also be formed if a sufficient number can be secured.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Miss Aimee Faulkner of East Quincy street is visiting friends in Hoosick Falls, N. Y.

Mrs. Ethel Sibley of Greenfield is visiting friends in this city.

Miss Rose Haines of Rodesboro, Vt., is stopping with relatives on East Main street.

SUCCESSFUL DANCING PARTY

Conducted by Young Men Last Evening at Pythian Hall.

Pythian hall was the scene last evening of much merriment, which was participated in by nearly 100 young people. The dance was given by George Ralston, Burdell Kemp, Chauncy Sumner, Andrew McAnally and Leon Graves, and was one of the pleasantest parties given this season. Round dancing was in order from 8:30 to 9 o'clock, after which time followed a miscellaneous program. I. S. Browne and Edward Messier furnished good music for the dancing and Harry Browne acted as prompter. During the intermission ice cream and cake were procured at Livermore's and the dancers returned to the hall refreshed and eager for the dance to continue. Among the dancers were several from out of town.

branch of instruction in the public schools. The pupils of those grades received but one thirty-minute lesson in music from Professor Tower each week, and only about twelve minutes each day is devoted to their musical instruction. Considering the small amount of instruction given to them in music, the work of the scholars yesterday was very creditable, both to pupils and teachers. The plan will be tried with other grades and it is probable that the idea of holding such gatherings will become established. The public is invited to be present at such exercises and all interested in the progress of the public schools should endeavor to attend.
